

I am in my car for over 40,000 miles per year. This does not include rentals when I fly. Which by the way I always get GM cars with XM in them. I rely on XM Radio. It not only makes the time pass much quicker, but it enables me to get traffic info on major cities BEFORE I get there and get stuck in traffic. Trying to scan AM radio for a report is hopeless! If I am lucky enough to find a station, it is full of commercials and static and traffic reports maybe every 10 minutes. This is just another example of "The Man" holding us down. Let the people have what they want!
